

Interdisciplinary Colloquium

Culture, Religion and Urban Environment in Late Antiquity and Beyond: Pathways to a cross-cultural investigation into learning cities

Date: Monday, 14 April 2014, 13.00–18.30

Venue: Classics, University of Glasgow, 65 Oakfield Avenue, Murray Room

13.00–13.30	Jan R. Stenger (Glasgow) Introduction to the project
13.30–14.15	Ine Jacobs (Edinburgh) Reconstructing the sixth-century cityscape in the Greek East
14.15–15.00	Jan R. Stenger (Glasgow) The ‘School of Gaza’ in its urban context
15.00–15.30	Coffee break
15.30–16.15	Vicky Gunn (Glasgow) Being Civic and Religious through Education? Late Antique Christian Gaza and Twenty-First Century ‘Graduate Attributes’
16.15–17.00	Michael Osborne (Glasgow) Current understandings of a learning city, indicators and their operationalisation
17.00–17.45	Nigel Sprigings (Glasgow) Cities and regeneration
17.45	Brainstorming: identification of key issues

This event is part of the research project ‘Gaza: Tradition and Leadership in a Learning City’, funded by the RSE (<http://www.gla.ac.uk/schools/humanities/staff/janstenger/#tabs=5>).

Contact: Prof Jan R. Stenger, Classics, School of Humanities, jan.stenger@glasgow.ac.uk