

ARCHAEOLOGY RESEARCH SEMINAR SERIES Spring 2018

Further information from
Dr. Claudia Glatz
claudia.glatz@glasgow.ac.uk

Wednesdays 4pm
Lecture Theatre (109)
Gregory Building

(* unusual time and/or location)

10 January

Robin Bendrey (University of Edinburgh)

Ecologies of domestication: Human-goat-environment interactions at the start of farming in the Neolithic Zagros

17 January

Sturt Manning (Cornell University)

Climate, landscape and civilization in Cyprus and the East Mediterranean: dendrochronology and science-based contributions

24 January

Piotr Jacobsson and Michael Stratigos (SUERC)

Living on water: Early Iron Age loch dwelling at Loch Tay, Perthshire

31 January

Dave Cowley (Historic Environment Scotland) and Rachel Opitz (University of Glasgow)

Ourselves, our eyes and brains, our landscapes, and the computer

05 February (Monday)

Ömür Harmanşah (University of Illinois at Chicago)

Remotely sensing: Ethics of fieldwork, military technologies, and archaeological practice

5pm, Room 109 in the Gregory Building

21 February

Emily Lethbridge (University of Iceland)

Literary mapping and mapping (Saga) literacy: The Icelandic Saga Map Project

28 February

Adrián Maldonado, Megan Kasten, Anouk Busset (University of Glasgow)

The Early Christian landscape of Glen Lyon

08 March (Thursday)

Sue Hamilton (University College London)

Constructing social and sensory landscapes: a journey from Bodmin Moor, UK to Rapa Nui (Easter Island) via Puglia, southern Italy

4pm, Room 109 in the Gregory Building

14 March

Aphrodite Sorotou (Inherit)

Whose place? Whose landscape? Whose heritage? An approach to Sustainable Human Development that is not cheap or risk-free but is worth pursuing

21 March

Mark Gillings (University of Leicester)

Spatial database as assemblage: Exploring new theoretical frameworks for archaeological GIS through the mapping of liminality and concealment

26 March (Monday)

Eleanor Robson (University College London)

Connecting people and the past in post-conflict Iraq and its neighbours: Introducing the Nahrein Network
4pm, Room 320 in the Gregory Building

Find out more: Lecture summaries and updates at <https://www.facebook.com/UofGArchaeology/>