

Megan B. Brickley is Professor and Tier 1 Canada Research Chair in the Bioarchaeology of Human Disease at the Department of Anthropology, McMaster University, Canada. Her primary research interests are use of paleopathology in bioarchaeology, and interdisciplinary research on past human health and disease. She has served as past-Chair of the British Association of Biological Anthropology and Osteoarchaeology and an Associate Editor of American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Currently she is an Associate Editor of the International Journal of Paleopathology and the President Elect of the Paleopathology Association. Her publications include two co-authored and six edited books and eighty journal papers and book chapters with a focus on metabolic bone disease.

Most recent publication:

Brickley, M., Ives, R. and Mays, S. (2020) The Bioarchaeology of Metabolic Bone Disease 2nd edition. London, UK: Elsevier Academic Press.