Change Management

ONLINE MICRO-CREDENTIAL COURSE

The University of Glasgow, Adam Smith Business School

Course Description

Change is the one constant and being able to lead and manage change, often on a national or global basis, are critical 21st-century skills. The academic and professional teams responsible for creating and delivering this course have included impactful learning experiences; real-life examples, practice-orientated solutions, challenge-based learning and leading professional inputs; across the various dimensions of managing change. The purpose of this exploration into the fascinating area of leading cultural change is to make sure that your organisation is a winner. This course commences on 17 January, 2022.

Why study a Microcredential?

Upskill and develop your career with the University of Glasgow's new, fully online microcredentials, delivered through the FutureLearn platform. Each course has been developed to equip you with in-demand professional skills and provide a springboard onto further study – with each course being worth 10 credits at Masters level. Each course is just 10 weeks long and at the end, you'll leave with new skills, knowledge and academic credit.

Eligibility

In order to join this microcredential you should hold an undergraduate honours degree and have an IELTS equivalent 6.5. This course is designed for business professionals or graduate students who want to develop the management and leadership skills necessary to succeed in a more senior managerial role. There are limited spaces available and learner enrolment closes 11 January 2022.

WORLD CHANGERS WELCOME

A Russell Group University
Named University of the Year at the 2020 Times Higher Education Awards
Ranked 73rd in the world in the QS World University Rankings 2022
Ranked among the top 100 in the world: Times Higher World University Rankings 2021

University of Glasgow, Charity Number SC004401

APPLY NOW!
Visit our website to apply:
www.futurelearn.com/microcredentials/change-management